

Accredited Bodies for Local Adoption

Local adoption service in Hong Kong was solely provided by the Adoption Unit of the Social Welfare Department in the past. To provide more choices to the applicants, a separate accredited system was established and has accredited the 3 non-governmental organizations as accredited bodies. Starting from January 2010, these 3 accredited bodies can carry out functions and procedural duties in relation to local adoption mainly on assessment of the suitability of the applicants as adoptive parents.

Other than the Adoption Unit, interested persons on local adoption service can now approach the following accredited bodies for information on the local adoption service provided by them and their respective fee charging details :
